ENGLISH 132/004

Short Story and Novel

Professor Mark Brazaitis

Office: 458 Stansbury

Office telephone: 293-3107 ex. 402

Email: MarkBraz@excite.com

Class Hours: TTh, 1 p.m.-2: 15 p.m.

Office Hours: Tuesdays (2:30 p.m.-5 p.m.), Thursdays (2:30 p.m.-4 p.m.)

and by appointment

Objective: In this class, you will acquire a broad understanding of the art of fiction. You will be able to speak and write knowledgeably about important short stories and novels, short story writers and novelists. You will have a solid grasp of terminology associated with fiction.

Requirements: Over the course of the semester, you will be doing a lot of reading, including seventeen short stories and four novels. You will also be expected to take notes during class discussions and class lectures in order to prepare for quizzes.

Quizzes: There will be four quizzes given over the course of the semester. They will be based on both the readings and class discussions/lectures. The quizzes will each be worth 20 percent of your grade. If you miss one of the first four quizzes, you will be allowed one make-up, to be given the last class period of the semester.

Mini-Quizzes: There will be 10 mini-quizzes given over the course of the semester. The quizzes will be given only on the day's reading. Five of the quizzes will be announced; five will be random. Each quiz will be worth 2 percent of your grade.

Texts: The Oxford

Book of American Short

Stories

(Joyce Carol Oates, editor);

The House on

Mango Street

(Sandra

Cisneros); Maggie: A

Girl of the Streets

(Stephen Crane);

Chronicle of a Death Foretold (Gabriel Garcia Marquez); and The Bluest Eye (Toni Morrison).

Final Grades: Final grades will be determined based on your quiz grades.

Class Attendance and Participation: You are expected to come to every class—and to come to class prepared to discuss the readings. Although class participation doesn't factor directly into your grade, consideration will be given to students who participate regularly in class discussions.

Student Responsibilities: If you miss a class for any reason (and it should be a good one) you are responsible for knowing what went on in class. The best way to do this—indeed, the only way to do this—is to contact a fellow student in the class and ask him or her what happened and, if necessary, copy the student's lecture notes.
